

James Ballard

Los Angeles 1993

Bobby was the one who told me he was dead. John said he died at sunrise. Paul was holding his hand when he let go. Sam said he never regained consciousness. Bill left the room when his breathing became irregular.

Mark was angry he skipped all the clinical trials. Dave didn't think it mattered. Phil was sure the new meds would have saved him. Chris said he had lost his will to fight. Frank said it was Karposi that brought him down. Taylor said it was pneumocystis.

Hal kept his leftover AZT. Tim recalled the day he named his anal warts. Ron remembered when he stopped taking calls.

Will divided up his address book. Grant called his family.
