

Partha Sarkar

The unsolved riddle

'And should be a morning
Without pother and pothead,
Rather should be a bed
Of roses with a warning

That there may be a report
As to postmortem of a pimp-
The filthy dealer of broken ribs
Without rick and stick for support..'

Thus stops for a while the riddle
To know who can be wise
To solve the riddle clockwise
And gets sad with a nail and needle

Finding no bright peacemaker
And pants without pacemaker.

Enough relaxation before the truce

Smiles

The languid moon of the day.

Give rays

The broken length of the terminal station.

Meets it every broken column of the ideology.

Enough relaxation before the truce.

Goes towards the daily magazine

The interference of prattle

But none is upset

As

Every day there is the reluctant cloud nonchalantly

Looks down before being stone.

Everyday there is none to deliver nectar.

In deep core

A vase alone burns

Three-fourths of burnt heart.

An eclectic and the symphony of eclipse

An eclectic.

The symphony of eclipse.

No, I am not broken but cannot have a quick fix.

The rush hours.

A broken platform adjacent to the level crossing.

Have come a lot.

Have gone a lot.

Amidst history has seen a lot the old banyan tree

How different death certificates easily buy and sell

The entities of the non-entities

And come and go for the moments

Progression and harmonic progression

When carry wagons as always the shadow of the black soil

To the castle of the fissure

And then again are born black bones to die.

No, I do not blame endemic, pandemic or epidemic

As they are dead before their journey with the passport

Given by embryo

And history never changes its attire.

Human embryos found in a dustbin

Yonder in a dustbin found the rag picker boys
Human embryos in a plastic bag
When everyone was celebrating the Independence Day
And everyone was cheerful
While were alone the innocent human embryos
Yonder in a plastic bag in a dustbin
(I do not mention the great rag picker boys)
And I find the definition of 'a cruel selfish free person.'