inarticulate, limited by the escarpment,

Congeries of the sly motive.

5

Motive for metaphor: roseate—

runnel plaits
into a cleft spent on the dominant X.
Non sequitur—the damn excuse: that people demand reason.

Pustular rhymes with corpuscle,
kills (p)oets,
one after another for their unforgivable
self-involvement.
What's the motive?

To brand clichés
with a hot iron on the arms of devotees:
the confession
skinned

from the flayed body—

eviscerated

by a horn.

Σ

Horn-god—the one weakened
by Esau to moans
of the biblically sick (sic.) The fifth heaven of guerdon and crest—a new apocryphon made from the prefix “meta.”
In effigy with faience and Kiddush cup,
a new beast:

METASAMMY.

Π

Metasammy's life in the reticulum is boring.
He has two left hands
and a bad case of adipose.
Yet, to the dismay of the disciples
of Qof,
he contains the seminal green
of the deviser and is thus his consort, wearing a beige sport coat
and Burberry cap.

Γ

Cap the steep ascent
and live forever—transumption.
Spun roots swell to rind,

rise to hair and cloud, face to nebulae
to torso, legs and plasma,
then back to seed,

of bird-fish or man-ape
hanging from trees like hairy/scaly leaves—lungs under trunks, eyes in bulbs, prehensile bark
outstretched
for ascent.

Ascent from a world of lack—Ahraic—

Hunt figuration.

ת

Figuration nearing pods—bursts:
vapor in the
dark: a dense proton,
decrescendos and expands—
a soup of matter, gamma,
in turn, nuclei: name
for a boneless
stick-figure who says, "if bodied, ovum in the seminal green of the deviser,"
and repeats
the first letter.
